To Defend Ourselves: Ecology and Ritual in an Andean Village (Latin American monographs no. 47)

by Billie Jean Isbell

The Circulation of Knowledge and Kinship

To Be Quechua: The Symbolism of Coca Chewing in an Andean Village. Institute of Latin American Studies, Latin American Monographs, no. 47, Austin: University of Texas at Austin, 1978

Segmentary State Formation and the Ritual Control of Water Under Ethnocentrism. Most of us are willing to accept the interdependence of industrial nations, but To Defend Ourselves: Ecology and Ritual in an Andean Village. Institute of Latin American Studies, Latin American Monographs, No. 47. Austin: